Saturday, May 4th @ 10am Neighborhood Beautification Day

Show your community pride by joining the Events Committee and the Scott Lake

Garden Club for the first annual Neighborhood Beautification Day. This year’s family-friendly event is focused on the park. We’ll be planting a native garden at the south entrance, including a special area for the children to plant, and preparing for a new picnic area. As a special treat, our young (and young at heart) volunteers will even be able to plant their own seeds to take home courtesy of Master Gardener Katie Kearney. Come on down to have some fun connecting with your neighbors and making our community a more beautiful place!

Who Should You Call....Scott Lake Maintenance Company!

If you suspect your water meter reading was not correct, please contact the office at 360/352-4787 and we will recheck the reading and the data entry. While we strive for accuracy, occasionally errors happen or there could be a leak. The best way to get this sorted out and corrected it’s necessary to go through the official channels. Please be aware that posting it on social media without contacting our office will not get it into the system to be checked and addressed.

Water System & PFA's

PFA's have been detected in our water system as have numerous water systems nationwide. These are a class of man-made chemicals considered a contaminant that the EPA has just come out with regulatory limits on. The SLMC Board is working with our certified water operator, Northwest Water Systems, to determine what this means for our water system. The WA Department of Health has a web page with some information: PFAS | Washington State Department of Health. You may also contact NWS at waterquality@nwwsystems.com with questions. We will keep you updated as we receive information.
